WORLD

South Africa

by Aidan

I come from South Africa. When I tell this to people they often don't believe me. They think South Africa is like the other African countries they see on TV. They expect it to be a very poor country with no electricity and animals walking all over the place. They are also very surprised that I am white because they think only black people live in South Africa! In actuality, South Africa is a very modern country. It is similar to many European countries. South Africa is famous for its gold and diamond mines, too. We also have many farms and grow a large amount of fruit. Some of the fruit you eat in South Korea comes from South Africa, too. South Africa is called a "melting pot" because people from many different cultures live and work together. You may wonder how we communicate with each other. Well, there are many different languages in South Africa. We have 12 official languages! The common language is English and everyone in South Africa learns it from grade one.

Rainbow Flag

by Aidan

The flag of South Africa has many colors. It is called the "Rainbow Flag." Black is for the black people. White is for the white people and for peace. Gold is for the gold and diamonds. Green is for the land and the fruit. Red is for the painful history. Blue is for the sky and the oceans. There are many different kinds of people living in South Africa. We all try to work together to make our country the best it can be.

CULTURE

South African food

by Aidan

South Africa has many different delicious kinds of food. However, they are very difficult to find in South Korea! There are many American foods here, but if I want South African food I usually have to make it myself. At home, I like to make biltong. Biltong is a South African version of Korean "yukpo." Yukpo is sweet but biltong is more salty and savory. Potjiekos is a traditional South African food. The name is very hard to say because it isn't an English name. It is an Afrikaans name. It means "small pot food." You can see in the picture, it is meat, potatoes and many vegetables cooked in a small pot for a few hours. The meat and the vegetables are very tender and delicious!

SPORTS

Sports of South Africa

by Aidan

South Africa is a country on the southern-most tip of the African continent. In many ways, South Africa is substantially different from South Korea in several key areas, especially regarding extracurricular activities. Here, sport is integrated into the curriculum all the way up to grade 12. Every Tuesday and Thursday from 3PM to 5PM, we are required to take part in a sports club of some sort. This takes place after classes have concluded for the day and is mandatory. There are often matches against other schools on Saturday mornings. The most popular sports in South Africa are soccer, rugby, cricket and swimming. For those less physically inclined, you are still required to participate by joining less physically demanding sports like chess. In this way, South African children grow up physically active. In South Korea, however, academy culture presents a huge barrier to students achieving their recommended amount of physical activity, which is unfortunate. SA sports culture has led to us being dominant rugby world champions and setting world records across a wide variety of sports. We even have a UFC middleweight champion!
