Italian Brainrot

by Hannah Mocke

★★★★

Do you know about Italian Brainrot? It is a series of ridiculous characters that make you feel like your brain is melting. Italian Brainrot sounds like Italian, but it's actually just random words mixed together! For example, there's Tralalero Tralala, Bombardilo Crocodilo, and Burbaloni Lulliloli. Tralalero Tralala is a shark character wearing Nike sneakers. Bombardilo Crocodilo is a crocodile character with the body of a giant airplane. And Burbaloni Lulliloli is a capybara character with the body of a coconut. My personal favorite character is Chimpanzini Bananini. It has the upper body of a chimpanzee but the lower half of its body is a peeled banana. As you can imagine, such wild imagery is very popular with students of all ages. Even some adults like the crazy creations. Thanks to the power of AI image generation these days, anyone can make their own Italian Brainrot style characters. There are many Brainrot characters because they keep on making more of them. One day, there might even be a fox with the body of a fridge and the feet of a frog!

Bus Accident!

by Aidan ★★★★

Did you hear about the bus accident at our school last week? It was the day of the third and fourth grade field trip. They were scheduled to go to visit the DMZ. In the morning, all the students were excited. They all wore their class T-shirts and happily met their friends. First the third grade left and there were no problems. Unfortunately, soon after when the fourth grade left, their bus bumped into the top of the pillar that contains the school gate and one of the windows shattered! Luckily no students were injured but the fourth grade had to come back and have classes and they weren't happy about that.
